- 1i. One glass tube labeled "AC-81-82
Loose Hair Calf Left Leg"
- 1j. One glass tube labeled "AC 81-82
Pubic Hair Plucked from Genitals" and containing four hairs

The hair of Exhibit #1c was examined microscopically and determined to be a human head hair. This hair was compared to the head hair standards of David Rowell, Charles Keith Wampler and Charles Cecil Wampler resulting in the following findings:

The hair of Exhibit #1c is foreign to the head hair standards of David Rowell and Charles Cecil Wampler.

Similarities and differences were noted between the hair of Exhibit #1c and the head hair standard of Charles Keith Wampler. Thus, no conclusion can be drawn as to the likelihood of these samples having come from the same source. An additional head hair sample from Charles Keith Wampler may permit a more definitive comparison.

No significant foreign material was detected in the nail scrapings of Exhibits #1e and #1f.

Exhibit #1i contains two hairs which were examined microscopically and determined to be human head hairs. These two hairs were compared to the head hair standards of David Rowell, Charles Keith Wampler and Charles Cecil Wampler resulting in the following findings:

One of the hairs was determined to be microscopically similar to the head hair standard of David Rowell.

The other hair and the head hair standard of Charles Keith Wampler were found to exhibit the same microscopic characteristics in all respects. These findings are consistent with the hair having come from Charles Keith Wampler.

It should be noted that hairs do not contain a sufficient number of individual characteristics to be identified as coming from one person to the exclusion of all others.

On February 10, 1982, the following additional items were received:

- Exhibit #12 One sealed and marked manila envelope containing a vial of blood identified as recovered from Charles Keith Wampler
- Exhibit #13 One plastic bag containing a couple tissues identified as containing a saliva specimen identified as recovered from Charles Keith Wampler

Exhibits #1-#13 were examined with respect to blood resulting in the following findings:

Red stains on the following items gave positive chemical and serological tests for human blood of type O:

- a) The yellow hand towel of Exhibit #1
- b) The pink and white towel of Exhibit #2
- c) The paper sack of Exhibit #3
- d) The paper sack of Exhibit #4
- e) Red stains recovered from the end table in the living room at 2755 Oak Lane (Exhibit #717)
- f) The toilet lid cover of Exhibit #9

Red stains on the following items gave positive chemical and serological tests for human blood of type A:

- a) The beer can of Exhibit #4
- b) The trousers of Exhibit #5

Small stains on the gauze of Exhibit #6, the sheet of Exhibit #8 and the contents of Exhibit #10d gave positive chemical and serological tests for human blood. An insufficient quantity of material was present in these small stains for additional tests.

No visible stains were present on the rug of Exhibit #7b but preliminary chemical tests indicated the presence of minute traces of blood. An insufficient quantity of material was present for additional tests.

The blood specimen of David Howell is type O (Exhibit #11).

The blood specimen of Charles Keith Hamner is type A (Exhibit #12).

The blood specimens of Exhibit #9 (toilet lid cover), Exhibit #717 (end table stain) and Exhibit #11 (standard of David Howell) were selected for additional blood grouping tests. These tests revealed the blood of Exhibits #9 and #11 to be type O, PGM 1, EAP B, ADA 1, and AK 1. Approximately 7.6% of the population would be expected to have this blood grouping combination. The only additional blood grouping that could be obtained from Exhibit #717 was PGM which was determined to be PGM 1.

Exhibits #1-#13 were examined with respect to semen resulting in the following findings:

No evidence of semen was detected on any of the victim's clothing (Exhibits #1d1, #1d2, #1d3, #1d4 and #1d5).

No trace of semen or significant foreign material was detected on the underwear or penis covering of Exhibits #5e and #5g.

No traces of semen was detected on the back clothes of Exhibit #6a.

Stains located near the center of the chest of Exhibit #6b1 gave positive chemical tests for semen.

Stains present on the white bath towel of Exhibit #6c1 gave positive chemical tests for semen.

Stains present on the tissue of Exhibit #6j gave positive chemical tests for semen.

Numerous stains present on the shirt of Exhibit #7a gave positive chemical tests for semen.

The seminal stains of Exhibits #6b1, #6j, and #7a each were subjected to serological tests resulting in the following findings:

The seminal stains of Exhibits #6b1 and #7a originated from a type A secretor.

The seminal stain of Exhibit #6j originated from a non-secretor.

The victim and the suspect were both determined to be non-secretors.

The seminal stain of Exhibit #6c1 was not suitable for blood grouping tests.

Exhibits #1-#13 were examined with respect to hair and trace evidence resulting in the following findings:

A green paint chip recovered from the towel of Exhibit #1b1 was compared to the paint standards of 711 and 712 and determined to be dissimilar with respect to color, tint, texture and chemical solubility. These findings preclude identification as to a common source of origin.

Hair recovered from the towels of Exhibits #1b1 and #1b2 were compared to head hair standards of Charles Keith Wampler (Exhibit #5i) and Charles Cecil Wampler (Exhibit #7g) resulting in the following findings:

Two of the hairs recovered from the towel of Exhibit #1b2 and the hair of Exhibit #7g exhibit the same microscopic characteristics in all respects. These findings indicate the two hairs of Exhibit #1b2 could have come from Cecil Wampler.

Fiber tufts recovered from the heel of the right boot of Exhibit #1c and the shirt of Exhibit #1d3 were compared to the fibers in items recovered from 2753 Cozy Lane (Exhibits #6a-#6e) resulting in the following findings:

The fiber tufts recovered from #1c and #1d3 were examined chemically and microscopically and found to be composed of two different acrylic fibers and two different polyester fibers. The fabric in the blanket of Exhibit #6a4 contains the same four identical fibers. In addition, the surface dye used to produce the floral pattern on the top surface of the blanket was present on some of the fibers recovered from Exhibit #1c. These findings are consistent with the fibers of Exhibit #1c and #1d3 having come from the same source.

Numerous hairs were recovered from items identified as recovered from Charles Keith Wampler (Exhibits #5c and #5e and #5h). None of these hairs were found to be similar to the hair standards of the deceased.

Numerous hairs were recovered from items identified as recovered from 2753 Cozy Lane (Exhibit #6a1, #6a4, #6b2, #6b3, #6e, #7a, #7c and #7i3). None of these hairs were found to be similar to the hair standards of the deceased.

Hairs and fibers from Exhibits #6i, #7e and #7f were not evaluated.

The fabric in the toilet lid cover of Exhibit #9 was compared to the fabric in the two pieces of the toilet cover set in Exhibit 10b resulting in the following findings:

Page 17
Case #B2-0767

Exhibits #9 and #10 are composed of identical fibers. These findings are consistent with the pieces of Exhibits #9 and #10 having come from a matched set.

Exhibits #1 through #13 are available for pickup by the Moraine Police Dept.
